Online Resources: How Families Can Discuss Natural Disasters

Include children in planning for an emergency. Teach them how to get help and what to do in different situations. Practice your household disaster plan with your children and quiz them about preparedness information. Attached link provides information of what every child should know in the event of a disaster, provide guidance to parents of important knowledge regarding children's schools and daycares regarding emergency plans and other important information to help prepare for disasters/emergency evacuations. <https://www1.nyc.gov/site/em/ready/kids.page>

The Child Welfare Services and Disaster Planning and Response Unit was created in 2021 and falls under the Children's Services Quality Management Branch and collaborates with the 58 counties to establish an effective process for creating, activating, and operating in an emergency and disaster preparedness plan as it relates to Children. Link attached will provide four emergency management phases:

Medical Equipment for Children Post-Disaster; Included in link will include common durable medical equipment used by children, how to identify resources to aid families with children with disabilities to acquire Durable medical equipment, (DME) and consumable medical supplies after a disaster, the challenges faced finding DME, and other valuable resources.

Emergency planning with children.

"Children are positive influencers, can become leaders and can be confident during an emergency". Youth preparedness and including youth in emergency management is an essential part of engaging the whole community. The link below will provide additional information from FEMA regarding Emergency planning with children.

<https://www.cdc.gov/disasters/human-trafficking-info-for-shelters.html> This page from CDC has a solid compilation of resources and information focused on human trafficking. Some resources are available in English and Spanish. This is something I might send out as a link to partners to increase awareness of the issue. <https://www.cdc.gov/disasters/human-trafficking-info-for-shelters.html>

For more specific materials that can be downloaded or printed, look to ACF Office of Trafficking in Persons or the DHS Blue Campaign. Both sets of resources are available in several languages, and are very detailed with concrete actions community members and social service providers (for example) can take if they suspect someone is being trafficked or are concerned about trafficking in persons.

An excellent anti-trafficking resource: <https://www.dhs.gov/sites/default/files/publications/blue-campaign/materials/pamphlet-victim-id-ngo-and-faith-based/bc-pamphlet-victim-id-ngo-english.pdf>
